FAMILY JUSTICE CENTER OF GREATER NEW HAVEN

A program of BHcare

When Jodi decided her husband had beat her for the final time, she called the police... they arrested him, and brought Jodi to the station for a formal statement.

Then Jodi went to East Haven to meet with a counselor from The Umbrella.

After dropping her kids with a friend, she took the bus to New Haven to meet with a prosecutor.

The following day, Jodi travelled again to meet with an attorney from Legal Aid.

Each time, with each meeting, Jodi had to tell her story again – reliving every painful detail as she met with various service providers.

With your support, we can provide a safe, confidential place for victims and their children to receive free domestic violence services all under one roof.

You have the opportunity to remove the physical and mental barriers of seeking help and give the survivors the opportunity to live safe, happy lives.

Please consider donating to The Umbrella Center for Domestic Violence Services and help give Jodi, and thousands of other victims, a chance to survive.
